

Supported Return to Practice: Free Simulation Day for Returning Medical Staff

- Many doctors have time away from clinical work for a variety of reasons, and it can feel daunting to return after said period away.
- You may have had time off following illness, burnout, parental leave, travel or research.
- This day is designed to ease you back into clinical practice with practical advice on the process of returning as well as clinical simulation scenarios followed by a supported debrief.
- The faculty are available all day to answer any questions about returning to practice that candidates may have, and we hope that this is a useful day for you all.
