

PPE: Pathologist and the Pandemic Evolution
The London and South East School of Pathology 12th Annual and 1st Virtual Trainee Conference

SAVE THE DATE

30TH March 2021

9:30 – 13:00

Venue – MS Teams

On behalf of the organising committee, we are pleased to announce the upcoming trainee conference, the first to be held virtually. We hope as many of you attend as possible. Much has changed globally since our last conference in February 2020, and the theme for this year's conference draws from events over the past year.

We would greatly welcome trainees who are interested in taking part in marking submitted abstracts. Please contact us for more details.

Why?

The School of Pathology invites trainees from all pathology specialities to the Annual Trainee Conference. Our aim is to provide an engaging and thought-provoking programme that focuses on current and future issues impacting on the practice of pathology.

This year the subject will be the effect of COVID-19 on the practice of pathology. We will have a morning half-day conference exploring issues around the Pandemic from different angles, including themes such as:

- How to manage a Pandemic
- The role of the Pathologist in its management
- Positive changes thanks to COVID-19 and The new normal
- Tools to improve mental wellbeing in COVID-19

Programme includes:

Plenary sessions

Trainee poster and oral presentations with prizes

What next?

Stock up on biscuits for the conference

Save the date in your calendar

Please click here to register your attendance

Abstract submissions:

Abstract should be around COVID-19

Abstracts accepted for categories including Quality/Service improvement, Clinical case, Research, and Education (an essay on the positive changes the Pandemic has brought).

750-word limit to text

Deadline for abstract submission 7th March 2021

Click here to submit an abstract

Click here to submit Posters, please clearly mark them as: Pathology Conference Abstract.